THE MYSTERIOUS WATCH.

THE DIAL is made of plate glass, perfectly transparent, and no mechanism visible beyond a small wheel, which is obviously inadequate to constitute a Watch. The hands nevertheless travel steadily round in the transparent empty space, and with its silver casing round the plate-glass dial. The whole forms a convenient and a serviceable, as well as a puzzling and "Mysterious" Watch.

Rs. 125 each.

GUARANTEED FOR TWO YEARS.

THE WATERPROOF WATCH.

Dipped into water heated up to 60 per cent., or into petroleum, one of the most penetrating substances, and exposed to the finest dust, the Waterproof Watch has come out uninjured from all these trials. Being water and dust proof, these Watches are particularly useful to residents in India.

Rs. 35.

Four Star * Cognac.

CERTIFICATE.

I have carefully analysed a sample of VERY SUPERIOR OLD COGNAC, forwarded to me by Messrs. Cutler, Palmer & Co., Wine Merchants, London, in labelled bottles with branded corks, and capsuled, and find such to be of excellent strength, thoroughly matured by age, and free from all noxious ingredients. It possesses the full ethereal flavour or bouquet of the best brands, is eminently palatable, and is in all respects of first class quality.

ARRIVAL OF THE I. M. S. LAWRENCE.

The Indian Marine Steamer Lawrence, Commander W. Aves, arrived in harbour yesterday afternoon from the Persian Gulf, where she was stationed during the last seven months. She left Bushire on the 9th inst., calling at Muscat. She has come to the Dock for the usual repairs, after which she will return to the Persian Gulf.

It is highly improbable, we understand, that the Maharajah of Kashmir will pay a visit to Lahore during the Viceregal stay ; though this may, perhaps, partly depend upon the outcome of the Resident's interview with His Highness.

The Bombay Gazette is quite right, we think, writes the Pioneer, in holding with the Government of India that a Government official should not, whilst absent on furlough, become director of a public company at home, and, it may be added, especially of a company having negociations with the India Office. But we also think our contemporary is wrong in naming Colonel Filgate, R.E., as furnishing a case in point. Colonel Filgate is officially a dead man, having taken furlough with the avowed intention of retiring at the end of it. He is, also, in common with many other officers of his corps, an excellent company's director, having full early shed his belief in the supreme wisdom of all his late masters do, and learnt to look at the various projects he takes up with the required partiality for the interests of his new masters the public. Generally stated the ex-Indian officer has proved more or less a drawback to every commercial undertaking to which he allies himself on his retirement. Starting with the best intentions, with a very natural sense that fees are good and that any fool may make a man of business, he is too often the prey of schemers who use his honourable credentials as part of the machinery of shady undertakings. Here and there, indeed, one recognises a well-known name so often in request as to forbid the supposition that its owner is always a dupe. The consequence is that a very proper field for the employment of good men, so many of whom leave India full of useful work, is closed. And now projectors at home will hardly take an ex-official Anglo-Indian at any price, so discouraging to the outside investor is his appearance in a prospectus.

HIGH COURT.—Appellate Side.

(Before Mr. Justice Scott and Mr. Justice Candy.)

A QUESTION REGARDING THE CORONER'S POWERS.

IMPERATRIX vs. MANOCKJEE EDALJEE.

Mr. Hamilton, Presidency Magistrate at Bombay, referred for the opinion of the High Court, under section 432 of the Criminal Procedure Code, a question of law which had arisen in a case against Manockjee Edaljee, a municipal inspector, which case had been previously investigated by the Coroner of Bombay.

It appears that a man was killed on the 2nd September 1889 by the fall of a beam, and a coroner's jury found that Manockjee Edaljee, a Municipal Inspector, was responsible for this death, and had committed a rash and culpable act, not amounting to culpable homicide. The Coroner thereupon directed the arrest of Manockjee, who was to be kept in jail "until he shall be thence discharged by due course of law." Under Section 25 of the Coroner's Act 4 of 1871 (Mr. Hamilton remarked in his reference,) when such a verdict has been given, the Coroner is required to bind over the witnesses to appear at the next Criminal Sessions to prosecute or give evidence against the accused. He is also required, immediately after the inquest, to deliver the papers in the case to the proper officer of the Court in which the trial is to be held. This is apparently a committal to the Sessions. It has, however, been the practice of the police, after a verdict by the coroner's jury to bring the accused before a Magistrate, where a lengthy inquiry is made under the Criminal Procedure Code, and the accused is formally committed to the Sessions. It was obvious (Mr. Hamilton thought) that such a practice might lead to a conflict of opinion between the Magistrate and the Coroner. The Coroner might commit, but the Magistrate might discharge the accused, or the reverse. These conflicts might be rare, but they were not impossible. On the accused in this case being put before Mr. Hamilton by the police, the Government Prosecutor stated that he had no evidence to sustain the charge which the police had made, following the verdict of the Coroner's jury, and applied that the accused might be discharged. Mr. Hamilton decided that he had no right to interfere, as the Coroner, under section 25 of the Coroner's Act, had either committed the case already to the Sessions, or that he would do so in the usual course. It would be observed (Mr. Hamilton said) that the conflict between the Coroner and the Magistrate, which he had said was possible, would have actually taken place if he had discharged the accused as proposed by the Government Prosecutor. The Coroner was bound by law to commit according to the verdict of the jury ; and Mr. Hamilton had been asked to discharge the accused and not to commit him. If he had made such an order, he failed to see what effect it would have had, for the case was already before the High Court ; and it would have been entirely out of place for Mr. Hamilton to tell the High Court not to proceed further in the matter. It appeared to him that the case having been committed by the Coroner, the High Court alone had any power over it. The Advocate-General might decline to prosecute, or he might alter the charge, or he might prosecute on the charge made by the Coroner's jury. In any case the Magistrate's interposition would be superfluous and unnecessary, and perhaps disrespectful. After careful consideration, Mr. Hamilton did not think that the Magistrate had either the right to interfere in cases committed to the High Court by the Coroner, or that such interference could be expedient. When he agreed with the Coroner, his agreement was unnecessary, and where he disagreed with the Coroner, his disagreement would be superfluous, for the case would be before the High Court who would dispose of the commitment without regard to the opinion of the Magistrate. Mr. Hamilton had directed the police to request the Coroner to follow the procedure prescribed by the Coroner's Act with respect to the witnesses and to the cusody of the accused.

Mr. Justice Scott, in disposing of the reference, said : The Presidency Magistrate, Mr. Hamilton, should be informed that Sections 432-3 of the Criminal Procedure Code empower him to refer, for the opinion of the High Court, any question of law which arises in the hearing of any case pending before him. But in case of such a reference, he ought either to suspend his judgment, or only give it subject to the decision of the High Court on the reference. In the present case, it appears from his report, he has already disposed of the case by declining jurisdiction and directing the police to request the Coroner to follow the procedure prescribed by the Coroner's Act as regards the witnesses and the custody of the accused. There is no reference, therefore, before the Court within the meaning of the Sections 432-3 of the Criminal Procedure Code ; and as the case will be speedily disposed of at the ensuing Criminal Sessions, the High Court sees no ground for interference.

The social reforms introduced by the Rajputana Chiefs continue to make rapid progress, as the rulers of the various States evince a warm personal interest in the matter. Committees have been formed in each of the native States, and the measures adopted for curtailing expenditure on the occasions of marriages and funerals, and the raising of the marriage age of girls to fourteen years, and of boys to eighteen years, are already becoming popular.

THE WEATHER.

Bombay, Nov. 16.—Observations taken at 8 a.m.—Explanation of Columns in the Table.

1. The barometric readings are all corrected to Calcutta standard and reduced to the same temperature (32°) and also of the sea-level. The 2nd column under the head "Pressure" gives the difference between the barometer reading of to-day and yesterday at each station, and + prefixed to the number implies that the barometer has risen and — that it has fallen.

2. The 2nd column under the head "Wind" gives the average motion of the air in miles per hour during the past 24 hours, and is obtained by dividing the total number of miles of wind registered by an anemometor during the previous 24 hours by 24.

3. The temperatures given in the table are of the air in the shade, or in a small shed with open sides, and a thached or straw roof. The maximum (max.) and minimum (min.) temperatures are the highest and lowest temperatures during the 24 hours preceding 8 a. m. The 6th column under the head "Temperature" gives the mean of the maximum and minimum temperature, and is approximately the mean temperature of the day. The 7th column gives the difference (with the proper sign) between the mean temperature of to-day and yesterday.

4. The humidity is given as a percentage expressing the rate of the actual amount of moisture in the air to the amount required to saturate it.

5. The amount of cloud is expressed in terms of the number 0 to 10, 0 denoting a cloudless and 10 an overcast sky.

6. The last column under the head "Rainfall" gives the difference with its proper sign between the actual rainfall from 15th May to date and the average rainfall for the same period.

In column "Wind Rate per hour," L = Light, M = Moderate, F = Fresh, S = Strong, H = Heavy.

a Fine weather with passing clouds. b Fine clear weather. c Sea slight. d Sea rough. e Clouds low, moving rapidly with scuds. f Sea very rough.

Summary.—Barometric changes have been small during the past 24 hours throughout the country, and comprise a slight rise in the North-West Provinces, Gujarat and locally at Karachi, Ajmere and Saugor, a slight fall in the Central Provinces, Berar, the Punjab, Central India, and also at the more northerly stations in the Bombay Presidency and a moderate fall elsewhere. The changes, though generally small, are very important and show that pressure is very high now in Rajputana and low on the Coromandel Coast off Negapatam. The probable low pressure area noticed yesterday off Negapatam appears to be intensifying, and the isobars to-day point to the existence of a barometric depression very near and to the south-eastwards of Negapatam. The winds on the Coromandel Coast appear to be cyclonic and increasing in force at Madras and Negapatam. The sea at Negapatam is reported to be very rough and the depression is giving moderate rainfall to the Madras Presidency. The barometer reads above the average in the Punjab, North-West Provinces, Sind, Rajputana, Gujarat, Central India, and also locally at Jubulpore, Khandwa, Amraoti, Surat, Malegaon, Poona, and Ratnagiri, and below it elsewhere, the deficiency being relatively great on the Coromandel Coast. Calm is reported from Jhansi, Cawnpore, Jacobabad, Rajkot, Indore, Khandwa, Akola, Malegaon, Poona, Belgaum, Mangalore, Cochin, Calicut, and Bellary. The winds are westerly in the Punjab, generally northerly in the North-West Provinces, Rajputana, and locally at Saugor, Nagpur and Colombo, and north-north-easterly to south-south-easterly in all other provinces. The winds of the past 24 hours have been of more than average strength at Negapatam, Madras, Sholapur, Bombay and Amraoti, but elsewhere they appear to have been generally less. The wind velocity this morning at 8 a. m. appears to have been increasing at Negapatam, Madras, Karwar, Sholapur, Bombay and Amraoti. The maximum temperature is now on an average about 3° higher than usual in the Madras Presidency, Mysore and Sind ; 4° in the North-West Provinces and 2° to 5° at Karwar, Goa, Belgaum and Jubulpore. The highest maximum readings exceeding 90° were recorded at Karachi, Deesa, Bellary and Cuddapah. The night temperature is 2° to 7° hotter than what it should be for this season in the Madras Presidency, Mysore, on the Malabar Coast and at several stations in the Central Provinces. In Sind, Rajputana and at most stations in the Bombay Presidency it continues to be unusually cool at night and the variations in other districts appear to be small. The mean temperature of the day seems to be rising almost over the whole country and humidity appears to be increasing also at several stations. Skies are very cloudy in Ceylon, the Madras Presidency, Mysore, and at Cochin, Allahabad and Cawnpore, and partially cloudy at Belgaum, Poona, Bombay, Surat, Amraoti, Nagpur, Jubulpore and Saugor. Rain amounting to nearly half an inch has fallen at Colombo and Negapatam, and at Trichinopoly, Coimbatore, Madras, Cuddapah and Cochin there have been light local showers. The weather in southern India and in the west coast, southwards of Goa, and more particularly on the Coromandel Coast off Negapatam, is very unsettled, and it is very probable that the depression will grow deeper, in which case the rainfall in the Madras Presidency will increase, and skies become more or less cloudy over the greater part of the Bombay Presidency and southern India.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

SATURDAY EVENING, Nov. 16.

LONDON financial quotations come generally unaltered under yesterday evening's date, Consols being still called 97¼, and Silver 43 11-16d. per oz.; while Indian Securities in either currency show no change in value. Paris quotations are also the same as in Thursday's telegram. The rate of discount on six months' sight Indian Bank Paper was reduced ⅛ per cent. yesterday and now stands at 3⅞ per cent., other rates being unchanged. A further advance of £1 per ton in Braziers' Copper is advised at £55 per ton. To-day's message through Reuter reports Silver still unchanged.

An advance of 6d. per quarter took place in Bombay Linseed on the other side yesterday, making the price 44s.; but the arrival rate was unaltered, at the same figure. Thursday's forward prices are repeated for both Cawnpore and Gujerat Rapeseed. Coffee was firm at an advance of 1s. per cwt. in Mid.-Plantation. Wheat was quiet but steady yesterday at a further decline of 2d. per cental in spot Soft White in Liverpool; but White Delhi and Soft Red were unchanged. The total wheat afloat for the United Kingdom was 1,450,000 quarters, or 10,000 quarters more than was upon the water a week ago.

The Liverpool Cotton market closed quiet last evening at a decline of 1-16d. in spot Mid.-American at 5 11-16d., and of 3-64d. in American Arrivals in all positions. Surats were steady and unchanged in value. There was less business doing, the day's Sales having aggregated only 8,000 bales inclusive of 800 Surats. The Imports were 21,000 bales. The Manchester market was firm at previous quotations for Goods and Yarn. This afternoon the Liverpool market closed steady; Surats quiet; the total sales being again 8,000 bales of which, however, the larger proportion of 1,500 bales consisted of Surats. Spot prices were unchanged, all round; but American arrivals, for all deliveries were 1-32d. higher. The day's Imports were 16,000 bales.

A smaller week's business is shown by the usual statistics wired yesterday, the total Sales having been 12,000 bales less than in the preceding six days, at 70,000 bales; while the amount taken by the trade and forwarded was 8,000 bales smaller, at 145,000 bales. The Imports were 42,000 bales heavier, at 148,000 bales. The total Stock had increased by 55,000 bales during the week, and, as shown below, was yesterday 201,000 bales heavier than at this time last year; while it had also become greater by 11,000 bales than the stock held at the same time in 1887. The stock of Surats was 6,000 bales heavier than it was last week at 135,000 bales. The total Visible Supply had further increased during the week under review by 170,000 bales, that of East Indian Cotton by 11,000 bales; and, compared with last year's figures, the total supply now shows an excess of 446,000 bales, while as against 1887 there is a falling off of 306,000 bales; and in the case of East Indian, an increase of 119,000 bales, and a decrease of 80,000 bales as compared with the two years, respectively, is apparent. In prices, yesterday's decline of 1-16d. in Mid-American is the only change which has taken place in spot quotations; but the rates given yesterday for American Arrivals were 3-32d. lower all round than those which ruled on the previous Friday. Spot American is now worth exactly what it was at this time last year, but is ⅛d. dearer than in 1887.

In New York 10¼ cents was still the rate yesterday for ready Mid.-Uplands, but Feburary-Futures were 2 points down at 10·09. The Receipts at the U. S. Ports were 42,000 bales, completing a heavier total than shown by the corresponding week in either of the preceding two years; and the total Receipts from the beginning of the season now show an increase of 427,000 bales compared with those last year, while the falling off as against 1887 has become reduced to 114,000 bales. The quantity of Cotton in sight is wired from New York as 2,390,000 bales. To-day's message reports no change in the spot price, but makes February Futures 5 points higher at 10·14 cents. The Receipts were 43,000 bales, going against 36,000 bales last year, and 40,000 bales the year before.

The American Crop figures to date give the following comparisons with the two previous seasons:—

The Bombay Gazette

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1889.

THE Government of India despatch of the 28th October which we published the other day, furnishes a curious commentary upon the action taken by the two dissentient Judges of the High Court early in the present year. It will be remembered that the principal witness in the criminal proceedings against Hanmantrao was Balkrishna Govind Sindekar. This individual on the faith of the solemn pledge given to him by the Governor in Council, came forward and admitted in the witness-box that he had paid money to Mr. Crawford's agent, on behalf of Mr. Crawford, in order to get his transfer to another district cancelled. He repeated this statement before the Crawford Commission. Thereupon one of the Judges of her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Bombay recorded a "confidential" minute, which was shortly afterwards published in the newspapers, calling attention to the illegality involved in the fact that Sindekar, though admitting that he had been guilty of "corrupt" practices, still retained his office. The Honourable Mr. Justice Jardine wrote:—"One of these witnesses has again come forward, and on oath and in public has again made his confession of corrupt and criminal behaviour. I refer to Mr. Balkrishna Govind Sindekar, who is both a Mamlatdar and a Magistrate. I think it unconstitutional that a person who has purchased his office should pretend for one single day to judge any person under her Majesty's protection." In support of his remarks the learned Judge dwelt much on the statutes of Edward VI. and George III., which have now become familiar in our mouths as household words. His colleague, the Honourable Mr. Justice Birdwood, took up the same position. He wrote:—"Under the English law a person who purchases an office or gives any reward or profit for the purchase thereof, or agrees or promises to do so, commits a misdemeanour, and forfeits to the Queen any right which he may have in the office, and is disabled to hold the office for life, and it is not lawful to the Queen to dispense him from such disability." It is clear that the two learned judges when thus pronouncing on the case were actuated by the supposition that Sindekar under the abovementioned statutes had by his admission of "corrupt and criminal behaviour" forfeited his office, and that it was unlawful for any one, Queen or Governor, to save him from such forfeiture except by a duly promulgated Act of the Legislature.

Now, what has been the position taken up by the Secretary of State in this matter? First, in February of this year he ordered all incriminated magistrates to be suspended from exercising judicial functions during the consideration of the Commissioners' report in the Crawford Case. But as was pointed out in the House of Commons, the chief duties of the incriminated officials were totally unconnected with judicial functions; a "corrupt" official, who would be likely to fleece her Majesty's subjects, would perhaps have more opportunities of doing so in his executive duties than in his magisterial work, which is subject to the close scrutiny of appellate or revisional courts. That was the first step in the ladder of inconsistencies made by the Secretary of State. Then comes his despatch (29th March) on the Report of the Commission with its "appreciation of the efforts" of the Bombay Government to get to the bottom of the scandal, but not a hint of disapproval regarding the manner in which those efforts were made, though the guarantee was then a matter of public notoriety. Then we come to July, when the Under-Secretary of State was instructed to officially declare in the House that it was impossible for the Secretary of State to repudiate the engagement made by the Government of Bombay, and that it was "only quite recently" the point had been raised whether technically under the Statute of George III. there had been any forfeiture of offices. Lastly, comes the Secretary of State's order in August "on further consideration" that "the case of the Mamlatdars must be governed by the spirit of the Statute 49, George III." and that "in doubtful cases," that of Sindekar included, the Viceroy must be consulted before any decision is passed. The Viceroy remarked with regard to this order:—"Stated shortly its effect is that those who paid money spontaneously cannot be allowed to remain in the service of the State, and that those only can be retained whose payments were virtually extorted." Let us see how this order has been applied to the case of Sindekar. The Government of India despatch of 28th October says:—"The payment made by him was in order to obtain cancelment of a transfer from the Nasik District, where his home is, and where he wished to remain. It is not clear that this is an offence against the Statute, and he may be excused from dismissal." The learned Judges had assumed without a moment's hesitation that Sindekar's "corrupt and criminal behaviour" did ipso facto cause him to forfeit his office; on this question of vital import the Government of India has taken a very different view of the facts from that set forth in the obiter dicta of the two Judges, who had not all the facts before them. It was not only on this crucial point has the Government of India been compelled to differ from the two Judges. Sindekar's case shows that facts operative in the mind of the Government were ignored by the Commissioners. According to the latter there was no extortion whatever, virtual or otherwise, practised on Sindekar: the transfer, to which he says he objected, was ordinary and proper, its cancelment was made in the usual official routine. But Government do not consider, that the payment which was undoubtedly made by him was corruptly made for the cancelment, and they decide that he may continue to be a Mamlatdar and Magistrate and Civil Judge.

It may well be asked in what the cases of Sindekar and his comrades, who have been "excused from dismissal," differ fundamentally from those of Bapat, Vinze, and the others who have been dismissed in violation of the guarantee which the Under-Secretary of State said should be upheld. The course taken in respect to these latter is inconsistent with the reputation for the good faith hitherto maintained by the British Raj, and has plunged the Government in a sea of inconsistencies. Sindekar's case is only one of several. Others could be quoted:—"Vasudev Ramchandra Patwardhan. Being ill, he agreed to pay for transfer to a cool climate (Poona). As he is no longer there, he may be left in office." "Sakharam Chunnaji Joshi—His chief object in agreeing to pay was apparently a healthy station. His services may be retained." It is hardly credible that such arguments should be found in an important State document. If the officer's chief object was to be sent to an unhealthy station, would his services have been rejected? With regard to another official—Rajguru—it is actually noted that "he is a young man, and if he is to be believed, he had nothing to do with the bribery himself, and as he has not been promoted, and will not be in consideration of the payment, he may be allowed to retain his old office." The whole business is a mismanaged lottery. One man is retained because he is young, and because, if he is to be believed, (Government evidently do not really believe) he took no direct part in the bribery for his own promotion. Another is dismissed, though he is an old man, valued by all the officers under whom he has served, who are anxious to bear testimony to his good character. He is turned adrift because it would be a prolongation of a deplorable scandal to allow the unfortunate man an opportunity of showing that he was the victim of "virtual" extortion. It is no wonder that the Honourable Mr. Hutchins complained of the "infinitely hard task" of discriminating between the two classes of officials. "The letter of the illegal pledge must be broken; we cannot but apprehend that they will abuse a position which they have obtained by corruption. But the (illegal) guarantee will be preserved in its integrity in every case in which this is possible with due regard to the interests of the public at large." In other words:—"A is a young man, and has not shown whether he can be relied upon in important duties: he paid to get a good climate, therefore there is no reason to apprehend that he will abuse his position and recoup himself for this payment. B is an old and trusted servant of Government: he was weak enough to swim with the tide and could make no head against the wave of organised corruption. It is true that he made all the amends in his power by answering the appeal of the Government whom he served, and coming forward to give all the information within his knowledge, even though he thereby placed himself in peril of misconstruction. It cannot be denied that he was solemnly promised that he should not thereby suffer in official position. But the promise was illegal—except when made to young men, and with reference to bribes corruptly paid for climatic considerations. It is true that he earnestly begs for an opportunity of showing that he was the victim not only of virtual, but of actual, extortion, and thus within the pale of mercy; and if his case had been heard the real circumstances could have been proved. But as his case has been decided in camera and ex-parte it would be deplorable if any exhaustive inquiry were permitted, and a great scandal unduly prolonged."

THE news of a rising in Rio Janeiro must have come as an unpleasant surprise to the holders of the eighty millions sterling of Brazilian debt, which is held mainly in England. The personal qualities of the Emperor, who is certainly the most accomplished and perhaps the only learned monarch of his generation, might have been supposed to guarantee the Brazilian monarchy against a shock of this kind. It has yet to be seen whether Brazil at large responds to the revolutionary movement in the capital, which after killing the Minister of Marine and upsetting the administration, has set up a revolutionary junta, and proclaimed a Republic. The Brazilian territory is so vast that it may be difficult for the revolutionists in the capital to carry its scattered and distant populations with them, and the telegrams say that the attitude which the provinces will take is not yet known. The misfortune which has fallen upon the Brazilian Royal family, who seem to be prisoners in one of their country palaces, follows so closely upon the death of the King of Portugal that it thickens the gloom that has come upon the House of Braganza, and a good deal of sympathy will be felt in Europe for the Emperor, where Dom Pedro's intellectual and personal merits are widely known. Little more than a year since the Emperor, who was a great traveller, paid a lengthened visit to Europe, and passed through an illness which threatened to terminate fatally. There seems something unkind in a fate which preserved him for such an ordeal as that which has been imposed upon him. He has governed on the whole with prudence and liberality, and has paid careful regard to the obligations which rest upon a constitutional monarch. The chief measure of his reign has been the emancipation of slaves which has been in process since 1871, and under which up to the present about a hundred thousand—little more than a tenth of the whole—have been gradually freed. If the insurrection becomes finally successful the monarchical principle will cease to have a representative in the American Continent, and the Monroe Doctrine will be realized in its integrity. The succession to the throne which has been assailed rests with a daughter of the Emperor who married the Comte d'Eu, son of the Orleanist Duc de Montpensier. We shall know in a few days if the Comte d'Eu and his wife are to join the other members of the House of Orleans in exile. Brazil is the only State in South America which has made patient trial of a monarchy, and the Empire has assured it a tranquillity to which its Republican neighbours have for the most part been strangers. In view of the proverbial restlessness of the South American Republics it is difficult to see what advantage the Brazilians are likely to derive from the change which seems to have been brought about.

THE last educational speech of Lord Reay must of necessity possess a somewhat special interest, and this has been made, with a certain appropriateness, in connection with the Poona Zenana Mission of the Church of Scotland, the body to which, as his Excellency explained, he himself belongs. The educational efforts of this mission, presided over by the three Misses Bernard, are well known, and have been highly appreciated and very successful. The schools are filled with an annually increasing number of children, and the prejudices which cause the Hindu community to withhold the blessings of education from their daughters are declared by competent observers to be perceptibly on the decrease. His Excellency, in commending the work of the ladies in charge of the mission, took occasion particularly to express approval of the policy of giving Christian teaching as distinguished from denominational teaching, which the Report declared to be out of place in schools in this country. He also noted for praise the effort to maintain relations with the pupils after their withdrawal from school, and declared that he would inform Lord Derby on his return home that his "continuation-schools" had been anticipated in Poona. His Excellency also alluded to the recent introduction of free schools in Scotland, but cautiously abstained from committing himself to any absolute opinion on that somewhat thorny topic, and limited himself to approval of the remission of school-fees in such cases as those before him. In the course of his speech his Excellency paid a high parting compliment to Mr. T. B. Kirkham, the Educational Inspector of the Division, whom he described as "that distinguished officer, who has given effect with great judgment to the policy of Government, which is opposed to all uniformity, and favours elasticity."

THE platonic nature of the acceptance by the Secretary of State of the Godhra-Rutlam Extension Scheme has caused much disappointment in Guzerat. But there are people in that part of the world who think that, until you can get a whole loaf, half a loaf is better than no bread. The Guzerat Subha, a native association, which sometimes does useful service in endeavouring to give expression to the public opinion of the Ahmedabad District, has sent in a memorial to Government expressing its concern at finding that nothing is to be done at present to carry out the scheme, and suggesting that rather than let it remain unexecuted, steps should be taken for constructing in the first instance the Godhra and Dohad Section. The reasons which in their view recommend such a course are that the whole of the country through which that portion of the line would pass is British territory, and that no preliminary negotiation with Native States therefore would be necessary; that no engineering difficulties would stand in the way, and that the existing metalled and bridged road would greatly facilitate construction; and that the district is rich and populous, and would provide a remunerative traffic. The memorial deserves the attention of Government, even though it may be easy to indicate objections to it. They will read in it an indication of the necessity of keeping the Secretary of State in mind of the fact that a sanctioned railway, the announcement of which is made contingent upon a more or less remote successor's willingness to admit that the state of the finances warrants its execution, constitutes a real public grievance. If the scheme is as promising as the India Office recognize it to be, it need not be carried out in sections, and for that reason it may be impolitic to support the prayer of the Guzerat Sabha's petition. Through traffic would play so important a part in the operations of the line—one of its chief raisons d'etre is that it would relieve the congestion of produce traffic on the Rajputana line during the export season—that there would be obvious advantages in carrying out the work without interruption, when once it has been begun. With the readiness of the B. B. and C. I. Board to raise debentures for the purposes of the undertaking on record the refusal of the Secretary of State to sanction an early prosecution of the work would be inexplicable were there not so many precedents for it in the railway policy of the India Office.

SPECULATION as to who is to succeed General Strachey in the India Council is put an end to by the notification in Friday night's London Gazette that the Secretary of State does not intend to fill the seats vacated by General Strachey and Sir Henry Yule. Thus the India Council Bill of last session, which provides for a possible saving of £6,000 a year, results in an immediate reduction of the cost of the Council by £2,400. The Secretary of State is given permissive power to reduce the Council to ten members by abstaining from filling up vacancies as they arise, and the fact that he has made use of his power in the case of the first two vacancies that have arisen gives promise that an Act which some have foretold would remain a dead letter is after all to be used for the reduction of the India Office expenditure. The marvel, however, is that Lord Cross, if men may be believed, regards this tiny Act of last session as an important measure of retrenchment. Well, he has so far reduced the expenditure of the Department by just one per cent., though people who forget that the India Office is a big building and takes a good deal of filling, pretend that if it were reduced fifty per cent., it would not necessarily lose in efficiency.

THE HON. MR. A. R. SCOBLE, Legal Member of the Viceroy's Council, accompanied by the Hon. Mr. Hutchins, a member of the same Council, arrived in Bombay by steamer from Kurrachee last week, and both have put up at Malabar Hill as the guests of the Hon. Mr. Justice Bayley. Mr. Scoble is expected to preside at the annual meeting of the Bombay Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to-morrow. It is in the fitness of things that the hon'ble gentleman should take an interest in Bombay affairs; for he was for many years Advocate-General at Bombay and was for a long time Chairman of the Bench of Justices, when the Municipal administration of the city was entirely under the control of that body. During one of the "share mania" years, Mr. Scoble's fees as Sheriff of Bombay reached the highest amount that a sheriff of Bombay is ever known to have received. Mr. Scoble, it may be remembered, distinguished himself as the Counsel for the Crown in the prosecution of the late Mulhar Rao, Gaekwar of Baroda, who was defended by Serjeant Ballantine, and was tried at Baroda before a Special Commission, on a charge of attempting to poison Colonel (now Sir) Robert Phayre, the then Resident at Baroda.

H. R. H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT has promised to be present at the half-yearly meeting of the Grand Lodge of Scottish Freemasons at Bombay on the 2nd December.

THERE is no truth in the statement which has been going the round of the up-country papers that Major Nevill will hand over the command of the Nizam's regular troops to Afzur Jung.

HIS EXCELLENCY IN COUNCIL has, with the concurrence of the Bombay Corporation, appointed Mr. F. W. Stevens, C.I.E., to assess the rateable value of the buildings and lands in the city of Bombay vesting in the Secretary of State for India in Council, and beneficially occupied. The remuneration is fixed at Rs. 120 per diem, the maximum aggregate being limited to Rs. 3,000.

FRIDAY, the 15th inst., was the last day fixed for the receipt of tenders for twenty-five lakhs of rupees on account of the Tansa Water-Works Loan, and on that date the balance remaining, Rs. 2,75,000, was all taken up. The twenty-five lakhs have been issued at premia varying from 4½ to 3½ per cent. The loan is to run for forty years, and the interest is 5 per cent. per annum in India, also payable in London at Messrs. Coutts and Co.'s at the current rate of exchange.

NEW RAILWAYS FOR NILGIRI AND SIMLA.

The Nilgiri railway scheme is now an accomplished fact, so far as money is concerned, but as a commencement it will only extend to Coonoor.

It is also said that the line to Simla, which is strongly backed by the Government of India, is likely before long to be undertaken by the projectors of the Umballa-Kalka Railway.

PRINCE ALBERT VICTOR IN HYDERABAD.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

HYDERABAD, Nov. 16.

Prince Albert Victor has already shown himself an enthusiastic sportsman. Notwithstanding that the ball at the Residency last night prevented him retiring early, his Royal Highness was in the saddle early this morning, for he had been promised by Nawab Afsar Jung good sport in hunting with cheetah, and black buck shooting. The party started out from Bushir Bagh early in the morning. His Royal Highness, accompanied by H. H. the Nizam, Nawab Afsar Jung, General Bradford, and Captains Harvey and Holford, arrived at the Saroor-Nagar hunting-ground about eight. Immediately on reaching the spot buck was found to be very numerous. The cheetah which was brought to the ground in a cart was immediately let loose. The animal bounded after its prey and ere the party had time to follow had fastened on the throat of a buck.

The Prince being anxious to shoot, his party were left to continue working cheetahs alone, and he went off with Nawab Afsar Jung and Captain Harvey armed with rifles. They were very successful during the short time they were shooting, bringing down three good heads, for the Prince proved himself a good steady shot. The party left the ground at about ten o'clock and returned to the city at noon. The Prince proceeded, to the palace of Sir Asman Jah at Khana Bagh, where over two hundred ladies and gentlemen had been invited to meet his Royal Highness at breakfast. In the afternoon it was expected the Prince would go to the Hyderabad Races, but he was so delighted with the sport of the morning that he expressed a desire to go snipe-shooting. Accordingly the same party went out again to the same spot, and were rewarded for their exertions in the sun by bringing down a great number of birds. It was only on darkness setting in that the Royal party returned homeward.

The next item on the programme was a banquet given by the Nizam to the Prince at his beautiful palace at Char Minar. On the way thither the Prince drove through the city and viewed the illuminations. The Poona illuminations were good, brilliant, but the spectacle here was beyond all description. Planted closely along the edge of the footpaths, in curious devices on copings, the eaves of houses, and around windows, were placed and suspended thousands of lights of various colours The palace of Char Minar was surprisingly beautiful. The walls from top to bottom and the tall pinnacles were crowded with coloured lights, and a grand triumphal arch near the palace was illuminated in like manner. The people in their thousands turned out to cheer the Prince on his way to the palace.

The banquet given last night to the Prince at Afzal Mahal Palace was attended by a large and brilliant gathering. The palace was illuminated wonderously and looked beautiful like a palace built with jewels. After a most sumptuous repast the Nizam proposed the Prince's health, saying although he would be welcomed wherever he goes nowhere would he be welcomed more loyally than in Hydrabad, both by himself and his people. He wished the Prince to convey to the Queen-Empress assurances of devoted friendship and loyalty, and concluded by a prayer that God may grant him long life and a glorious brilliant career. The Prince in reply thanked the Nizam heartily for the kind and brilliant reception and also for the great kindness shown by the Nizam and his Officers during his short stay in the city. He also said that he would not fail to convey assurances of loyalty to the Queen-Empress. The Prince then proposed the Nizam's health.

To-morrow, prior to departing for Madras, the Prince will spend the day resting, but will dine in the evening with the officers of the 7th Hussars, departing by a special train late in the evening. It is expected that the Royal train will catch up with the ordinary train at Wadi, in which case the party will proceed by it direct to Madras.

NOTES FROM NAGPORE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NAGPORE, Nov. 12.

THE Chief Commissioner, with his chief secretary, Mr. Laurie, came into Nagpore on Saturday last. Mr. Mackenzie was received at the Railway Station by the heads of departments, and by a large number of other gentlemen and ladies of the station, who accorded him a warm and hearty reception. I hear that the Chief Commissioner will only stay at Nagpore a few weeks, and then proceed on his cold weather tour through the Provinces. It is an excellent practice for the head of a Government to visit all parts of his dominions and see for himself occasionally the condition of the people and the country : especially advantageous is it to this Province when an Administrator like Mr. Mackenzie tours through the province ; for his robust and practical mind discerns quickly the needs of a district, place, or department, and as quickly its needs are supplied. The personal acquaintance with the officers, European and Native, working out in the districts, and the information he gathers from them must also be of immense value to him in administering to the wants of this immense territory.

The recent Devali was a great success from a Hindoo point of view ; the great city of Nagpore was well lighted up during the three nights of the festival : even the poorest of the poor considering it incumbent to have a few earthen lamps before their door ; while the houses of the well-to-do shone again. The small Parsi community of Nagpore were not behindhand on this occasion ; and the shops of the popular firm of Cursetjee and Co., both at Kamptee and Nagpore, were beautifully illuminated. The bazaars were full of sweetmeat shops filled with toothsome goods such as the Hindoo loves ; the number of men, women, and children that surrounded them showed how greatly they appreciated the crisp succulence of jilabees, the delicious crunch of the moli-choor, and the globose ludoos that were piled up for sale in appetizing pyramids ! But what seems to be the most prominent feature of the Devali is the extensive gambling that goes on during the three days of the festival, and which is evidently permitted by the authorities. Games of chance of all kinds are played openly in every street, and I have seen little boys eagerly staking their pice on the twirl of a little teetotum. Among sowcars and other wealthy people heavy gambling goes on, and many thousands of rupees change hands during the three days, which is charged off to profit or loss in their account, before their New Year book are opened.

The weather now is delightful and invigorating, and the English community have wakened up to real life, from the mere existence which characterizes the hot-weather months, and the close stewy weather of the monsoon.

BY kind permission of the Admiral, Capt. Curzon Howe, and the officers of H. M. S. Boadicea, the band of the ship will play after dinner at the Yacht Club, to-morrow (Tuesday.)

PRINCE ALBERT VICTOR AT HYDERABAD.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

HYDERABAD, Nov. 15.

WHEN his Highness the Nizam of Hyderabad travels, he travels most comfortably, as he has shown by the magnificent suite of carriages he sent to Poona to convey his Royal guest from England to his State. Prince Albert Victor, when he sailed out to India, had all he could possibly wish in the shape of good accommodation, and luxurious apartments, luxuriously furnished better than which he could hardly have had in a palace. We know how the P. and O. Steamship Company merged several cabins into two, and how the captain gave up his own room on deck to the Prince. But travelling by rail is a very different thing. Accommodation is necessarily limited in a train, and however large the saloons can be constructed, they are as rooms small at best. But those who had never before seen the Nizam's State carriages, and who were on the platform at Poona Station on Thursday night to speed his Royal Highness on his tour, must have been more than surprised at the splendour of the little palace our Prince had set at his disposal for his fifteen hours' journey to Hyderabad. First of all there was a saloon fitted up as a sitting room, with two most inviting lounges and easy chairs around, on which he and his guests could sit and chat and smoke the hours away. In another carriage was found an elegantly furnished bedroom with bathroom and servants' quarters adjoining. The dining saloon was decorated in gold and white with admirable taste. The ceiling attracted most attention. It was arched, like a little hall, and the decorations were floral in relief, profusely gilded on a greyish ground. A long table ran nearly the whole length of the saloon, and on either side were chairs, upholstered in green leather, and artistically carved on the backs. On either side of the door leading from the kitchen or cooking room were two little gems of sideboards, which were a perfect mass of floral carving work, at the back being tall mirrors reaching to the ceiling. A large crowd of people assembled on the platform to witness the Prince's departure from Pooona. The departure was supposed to be private, but it is a question if the platform which is by no means a small one could have been more crowded.

The Prince was loudly cheered when the train left the platform, and the band played "God save the Queen." About an hour's run brought the train to Khedgaum, and this being the dinner hour the train was brought to a stand in order that the Royal party might enjoy dinner more comfortably. Then the train was set in motion again. The night passed, and at Tandur breakfast was partaken of. Hyderabad was reached at a quarter to twelve, when a grand reception awaited his Royal Highness. H. H. the Nizam was there surrounded with his chief officials waiting to welcome his guest in person. Amongst those present were :—The Resident, his Excellency the Minister, Nawab Mehdi Ali, General East, Colonel Peel 7th Hussars, Mr. A. J. Crawford Third Assistant Resident, Colonel and Mrs. Weatherall, General Stewart, Captain Morris A.-D.-C. to the Resident, Mr. and Mrs. Gauntlett, Mr. Furdonji Jamsetji Private Secretary to the Minister, Major Gough, Mr. R. B. King, Mr. Hormusjee M. Vakil, Nawab Intesar Jung Bahadur, Nawab Imad ud Doula Private Secretary to the Nizam, Moulvi Syed Ali Belgrami, Nawab Afzar Jung Bahadur A.-D.-C. to the Nizam, Nawab Mabook Jah Jung A.-D.-C. to the Nizam, Nawab Khoorshed Jah Bahadur, Nawab Jafar Jung, Nawab Fazkr ul Mulk, Nawab Akbar Jung, Afzur Ali Nuziar Beg, Mirza Hafiz Ali, Baron and Baroness Von Rosenberg, Mr. J. D. B. Gribble, Dr. and Mrs. Bomford, Dr. J. Laurie, Dr. Lauder, and Captain Norman.

The station was a pretty picture. It was beautifully carpeted ; rare and beautiful plants were disposed around, rising at the back were tasteful drapings composed of flags and coloured cloths, a grand triumphal arch bearing a welcome to his Royal Highness to Hydrabad was erected over the entrance, while suspended over all was a mass of banners. As the train drew up at the platform, a Royal salute of thirty-one guns was fired from the battery, and immediately after an answering fire was heard far away in the distance. The soldiers at Secunderabad were also giving welcome to his Royal Highness. On the platform to receive Prince Victor was a guard-of-honour, of H. H. the Nizam's regular troops, and outside, on the other side of the triumphal arch, was another guard-of-honour, also of the Nizam's troops.

On stepping on to the platform, as already mentioned, the Prince was received by H. H. the Nizam. They heartily shook hands, H. H. the Nizam welcoming the young Prince most cordially to his State. After this greeting the Nizam introduced to his Royal Highness the Resident, Mr. Fitzpatrick, who in turn presented General Leask, C.B., of the Secunderabad District ; General Stewart, Hyderabad Contingent ; Colonel Fitzgerald, Hyderabad Contingent ; and General Roberts. The Minister Sir Asman Jah was presented to the Prince.

H. H. the Nizam after the ceremonies of introduction conducted the Prince to the State carriage which was in waiting, and escorted by a contingent of the 7th Hussars and Madras Cavalry the Prince's party drove direct to Bashir Bagh where the Prince is residing during his stay in Hydrabad. The crowds of people assembled along the route, short as it was, were most enthusiastic in their demonstrations of welcome. Anxious to be in time the people began to assemble in the vicinity of the railway station in early morning, and a full two hours before the Royal train was signalled the road was packed. But a more orderly multitude could not have been found anywhere. The Nizam's troops lined the road.

Arrived at Bashir Bagh, his Royal Highness spent the early part of the day resting, but later on H. H. the Nizam paid a visit to the Prince, as did also the Minister. Then Prince Victor set out for the city and visited the Nizam at the palace. The people of Hydrabad again turned out in thousands. All along the route he was lustily cheered ; while the profuseness and grandeur of the decorations impressed him. Venetian masts were planted at close intervals along the route, and supported long lines of streamers. At short intervals triumphal arches, bearing greetings and words of welcome, spanned the roadway, while overhead, from all the most prominent places, floated flags and banners of every nation. It is said that it will take a lakh a day to cover the expenses attending his Royal Highness's stay in Hydrabad. The Prince evidently enjoyed his visit to the Nizam. The host took his Royal guest to the stables and showed him a magnificent stud of horses, numbering over a hundred, and also showed to him his collection of State jewels, in which there was much to admire.

In the evening, a grand ball was given at the Residency in honour of the Prince's visit. The guests numbered several hundreds.

To-morrow is fixed for the illumination of the city to-night, the approach to the Residency and grounds were very brilliantly lighted up. The Residency building too was ablaze of light.

Dancing commenced at half-past nine, H. H. the Nizam's band going through the following programme.

THE FORTY-TWA CUP.

ON Thursday last, a field of seven out of eight entries competed in the second match for this Cup, and the play was on the whole considerably improved. The mali as usual left a number of hazards in the shape of stones, just where the putter is very useful ; but he managed to clear away in time for the first players, the branches and cutchra that barred the approach to the box hole, and there were not nearly so many tufts of dead grass round the telegraph hole. It was expected, from Reid's form in the last match, that with an allowance of 5 strokes, he was almost sure to win, and the result proved that he very nearly had it all his own way. His putting was not quite up to his driving and he came in at 50, which, with 5 off, made his net score 45. Nixon began with a 3 from a very long drive, and he kept up a fine game till he approached the box hole, where he hit a coolie sitting on the grass, got among the roots of a tree behind the now too-well-known box, and could not hole out under 11. However, at the last hole, the luck was all the other way ; for by a most unusual rub of the green his ball was stopped in time for a very easy 2. His good score of 47, when reduced by his allowance of 2 strokes, made him 45, and a tie with Reid. The last player to come in was Melvin, who had again to play "a solitary round," through his partner having unfortunately slept in. His score, a very carefully played 45, made him tie with Reid and Nixon. This, so far, is the best record of the season, but being 5 strokes above that for last year, it will undoubtedly be considerably lowered before all the matches are played.

On Saturday, the ties resulted in Nixon with his 2 strokes again tieing Melvin at 50, with Reid 1 stroke behind. A second round produced 43 nett from Nixon, who therefore won, Melvin being 47 :—

THE QUARTERLY CIVIL LIST OF THE BERARS.

THE above is a pamphlet containing fifty pages with an index of four pages corrected up to the 31st ult. On the date of issue there were eleven officials "on leave" (nine from Berar and two from Secunderabad). Since then Messrs. T. Chichele Plowden, Commissioner, and Cumberlege, Superintendent of Police, have returned from leave. Official element in the Berar Commission is plentiful. There are Revenue and Judicial Commissioners, each on Rs. 2,750 per mensum. The one Civil and Sessions Judge on Rs. 1,833-5-4, the present incumbent (Mr. Obbard, B.A., C.S.) is officiating, and receives only Rs. 1,555-8-10. There are six Deputy Commissioners, of which there are, one first class on Rs. 1,833-5-4 ; two second class on Rs. 1,166 10-8; and three third class on Rs. 1,333-5-4. Two Special Assistant Commissioners receive Rs. 1000 each ; twelve Assistant Commissioners (three classes) whose salaries are Rs. 500, Rs. 700, and Rs. 900 respectively. There are three vacancies in this class. Besides the above there are seventeen Extra Assistant Commissioners, divided into five classes, whose salaries range from Rs. 250 to Rs. 600. Twenty-two tehsildars figure conspicuously in the list. The above officials are the guardians of 2,672,673 souls who are scattered over 17,711 square miles which are divided into six districts. There are 5,585 towns and villages in the Berar Province. In addition to the above we find there are one Conservator, one Deputy, two Assistants, and five Sub-assistant Conservators of Forest. We notice that the Inspector-General of Police is also Inspector-General of Jails, Registration, Excise, and Stamps. The present incumbent (Mr. Fred. Wright) who is officiating, receives Rs. 1,200, or only Rs. 200 more than his substantive appointment as first class District Superintendent of Police. Berar is well supplied with police. We find there are one Inspector-General of Police, six District Superintendents, three Assistants, and eighteen Inspectors of Police. The Medical Department requires to be augmented, as it is a notable fact that sanitation cannot be carried out with efficiency with only one Civil Surgeon to each district.

We find in the pamphlet before us one supersession in the person of Mr. C. A. W Davies, Special Assistant Commissioner of thirty-four years' service, by an Assistant Commissioner of twelve years' service (Mr. Muhammed Yasm Khan) second grade, who has been created a Deputy Commissioner of the third class. In Berar our correspondent says, we want justice and equity, but without favour or affection.

The municipal towns have increased by one ; now there are eight in Berar.

TELEGRAPHIC WEATHER REPORT.

SIMLA, Nov. 17.—The barometer has fallen throughout the whole country. The fall is greatest along the Coromanded Coast, but is brisk to moderate everywhere. A storm recently noticed over the Bay is intensifying, its centre still lying over the south-west of the Bay between the Madras and Ceylon Coasts. The storm is now apparently a deep and important one ; the winds and weather around the Bay are affected, a strongish cyclonic circulation prevailing with tremendous sea at Negapatam. Temperature is above normal in most provinces. Slight rain still falls in Bengal, and showers on the east of the North-West Provinces, but the heaviest rain-fall is on the Coromandel and Malabar coasts. Cautionary messages have been sent to Malabar ports.

AT a meeting of members of the Bombay Gymnastic Institution, held on Saturday at the office of Mr. M. M. Bhownugree, C.I.E., it was resolved that Sir Dinshaw Manockjee Petit having given a donation of Rs. 11,000 for the institution, it should hereafter be named the "Sir Dinshaw Manockjee Petit Bombay Gymnastic Institution." The managing committee were requested to have a proper trust-deed prepared and executed.

THE missing link of the Lucknow-Philibit Railway, which the Rohilkund and Kumaon Company have contracted with the Secretary of State, to complete, is, thanks to the local Government having advanced a lakh of rupees for immediate needs, to be put in hand immediately. The rails and girders have already been ordered from home. The Company's agents trust to have the whole 57 miles finished by next rains, which would be smart work

THE VICEROY AT BANNU.

THEIR Excellencies the Viceroy and the Commander-in-Chief arrived at Bannu about 1-30 P. M. on the 7th instant, accompanied by his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, Sir James Brown, the Quartermaster-General, and a numerous staff, for the purpose of opening the Kurram Bridge. The roads were lined by the 1st Punjab Infantry and the 2nd Sikhs. They were received by the officers commanding regiments and the heads of departments at the house of the Deputy Commissioner, which had been placed at the disposal of His Excellency. In the afternoon an informal reception was held in the Public Gardens, at which the various officers stationed at Bannu were presented to His Excellency. In the evening, in accordance with the proverbial hospitality of the Frontier Force, the officers of the garrison entertained at dinner the entire party, no less than fifty persons sitting down. The next morning his Excellency opened the Kurram Bridge. He was accompanied by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, Sir James Brown, the Commissioner of the Derajat, Colonel Ardagh C.B., Private Secretary, Lord William Beresford, and a large staff. The road by the bridge was lined by the 1st Punjab Infantry. Mr. Anderson, Deputy Commissioner, Mr. H. A. Shrapnel Fenner, Superintending Engineer, and Mr. Barratt, Executive Engineer, received the party near the bridge head, when the Royal Standard was hoisted. Mr. Fenner having obtained the permission of His Excellency, read the following address :—

"May it please your Excellency to allow me, on behalf of his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, the officers, civil and military, and the community generally of this remote portion of her Gracious Majesty's Empire, to thank your Excellency for having consented to open this bridge.

Larger and commercially more important bridges have been erected in various parts of India, but this is a work which forms one of the prominent links in our system of Frontier Defence, and for several reasons may be considered unique in itself.

This and the Gambila Bridge, which your Excellency passed yesterday, are the largest bridges on the N. W. Frontier road. That road is 202 miles long—extending from Khushalgarh on the Indus to Dera Ismail Khan on the same river. Running parallel to the Frontier boundary it commands several of the most important passes into Afghanistan. It connects two systems of railways, bringing in touch the important military bases—Rawalpindi and Mooltan—and linking together the cantonments of Kohat, Bannu, and Dera Ismail Khan.

The old track, or road, which was practically impassable in parts for wheeled traffic, has now been supplanted by what is designated a first-class military road, with easy gradients and bridged and metalled throughout, many of the numerous bridges on it being fine specimens of engineering work. From Kohat to Latamma, sixty-three miles, it may fairly be designated a hill road.

The road has been completed in about three and a half years under difficulties inseparable from work on the Frontier. All skilled labour had to be imported and guarded ; food and even water had to be arranged for ; cholera for two consecutive seasons claimed its victims from one end to the other ; and the staff had by patience and tact to gradually induce a race to work whose hereditary disposition is to wield the sword rather than the pickaxe. Nevertheless even the wild Waziri has been coaxed to forsake for a time his mountain home, and has proved himself to be a hearty and willing worker.

In the Gambila anl Kurram bridges there are upwards of 2,000 tons of iron, and this, together with the machinery, has been brought about 110 miles from the railway, involving crossing the Indus in flood time, along a road under construction, and through a country, where food and often water for the animals were not procurable.

It may interest your Excellency to know that the fountain-head of the Kurram River is shadowed by the snow-clad pinnacled heights of Sikaram, the highest peak of the Safed Koh ; that the catchment basin drained by the river is 4,140 square miles, and that the volume of water computed to pass through the bridge in a high flood is 136,557 cubic feet per second —an amount 27 times greater than the Thames in flood at Teddington.

The importance of this bridge can be imagined from the fact that regiments have been encamped for a week on the river banks unable to cross. The now almost waterless bed hardly testifies to a flood coming down like 'a wall of water' with a velocity of 15 to 17 feet per second.

Again thanking your Excellency for the great honour you are doing us by associating with this ceremony, the first visit of a Viceroy to the Bannu Cantonment, I ask you to declare the bridge open.

The Viceroy, in reply, expressed the pleasure which it gave him to inspect this useful and important work. Of the material benefits conferred upon the country by British rule none were more substantial or enduring than those resulting from improvements in the means of communication. Such improvements were the condition, without the presence of which all others—not only strategical, but commercial and administrative—were impossible. This bridge formed an essential feature in a great arterial road, uniting two great systems of railway and connecting some of the most important military positions on the frontier. Some of those who were present, amongst others, His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief were able to bear witness to the delay, risks and inconveniences which had been experienced in the past owing to the impossibility of crossing the Kurram River at certain seasons. He heartily congratulated the Punjab Government and the officers concerned in the construction of the bridge, upon the successful manner in which the work had been carried through in the face of difficulties certainly not exaggerated in the address. He wished to express his entire concurrence in the statements to which he had just listened in regard to the incidental advantages arising from the employment upon such works of the tribes occupying the adjoining districts, and he trusted that this might only be one of the many cases in which such employment might be given to the tribesmen at different points along the frontier. He was convinced that there was no better way of habituating them to peaceful pursuits and weaning them from those lawless modes of proceeding which formed a picturesque, but he feared an objectionable, feature in frontier life. In conclusion, His Excellency said he trusted that the time might be distant when this bridge would be traversed by an armed force proceeding to the frontier for the defence of the Empire. If that day should ever come he had no doubt that the country would be grateful, both to those whose policy had determined that their strategical lines of road should be laid down and to the officers whose skill and energy had been instrumental in bringing the works to completion. His Excellency then formally declared the bridge to be open.

The entire party subsequently walked to the end of the bridge and back. The bridge, including the approaches, was gaily decked out with bunting, and the grand effect was much admired. His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief was pleased to express to Mr. Fenner his great satisfaction in the completion of a work in which he was so much interested.

In the afternoon the Commander-in-Chief inspected the troops at Bannu, and the Viceroy attended a large gathering of Waziris, who entertained him with various sports, including tent-pegging.

On the 9th the Viceroy and party left Bannu under a royal salute en route to Peza, fifty-two miles, escorted by the 2nd Punjab Cavalry, relief detachments being posted all along the road. Gambila, twenty-six miles, was reached in under three hours. Messrs. Fenner and Barratt met His Excellency, and conducted the party over the Gambila Bridge. Thus two of the largest bridges on the road were opened by the Viceroy.

THE BISHOP OF MADRAS IN BERAR.

A COMMUNICATION of the Grand Lodge of all Scottish Freemasonry in India for the investiture of the officers for the new year, which usually takes place on St. Andrew's Day, has been postponed this year until Monday, the 2nd December. H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, District Grand Master, who is expected to return to Bombay from Aden on the preceding day, will be present with his district grand officers, at the communication, in connection with which very costly preparations are being made.

A NUMBER of Cooper's Hill men, it is understood, will gather in Delhi about Christmas, and signalise their advent by a ball.

MISS HOJEL'S MARRIAGE.

THE marriage of Mr. Edward Lawrence, of the Bombay Civil Service, now officiating as Under-Secretary to the Government of India, and Miss Violet Gertrude Hojel, eldest daughter of Brigade-Surgeon Hojel, physician to the European General Hospital, was solemnised at All Saints' Church, Malabar Hill, on Thursday morning. The entire population of the Hill was present during the ceremony, and the little church decked gaily for the occasion was so packed that notwithstanding extra seats were placed in the aisles, many of the guests were unable to gain an entrance. The Rev. Goldwyer Lewis, Officiating Archdeacon of Bombay, officiated, and Mrs. Reginald Gilbert played a voluntary as the wedding party entered as well as the Wedding March as the bride and bridegroom left the church. The bride wore a dress of white corded silk and crepe lisse, orange blossoms, tulle veil fastened with diamond spray, the gift of his father ; also a diamond brooch the gift of the bridegroom ; and needless to say looked very charming as she entered the sacred edifice leaning on the arm of her father. She was accompanied by Miss Katie Hojel (sister), Miss Orr, and the two Misses Starling as bridesmaids, each carrying bouquets of violets, the flowers being chosen out of compliment to the bride. The bridegroom, Major Pengree, R.A., his best man, Dr. Hojel and many of the guests also wearing button-holes of violets. The bridesmaids wore white Indian muslin handsomely trimmed with moire ribbon and valencienne lace with tulle veils and wreaths of violets. Each wore a gold and diamond hunting cross and horse-shoe brooch and carried white and violet bouquets, the gifts of the bridegroom. The bride's mother wore a dress of Persian heliotrope silk and violet velvet bonnet to match.

Dr. Hojel's bungalow, "The Cliff," was decorated in similar style to the church, with palms, flowers, and ferns, the entrance and verandahs being covered with red cloth. To "The Cliff" after the conclusion of the ceremony all the friends of the bride and bridegroom repaired, a reception being held there. The magnificent and almost countless presents were here displayed in the billiard room, being placed on the billiard table and couches and tables adjacent.

When these had been inspected the guests honoured the customary toasts. The Rev. Goldwyer Lewis proposed the health of the Bride and Bridegroom, which was responded to by Mr. Lawrence. Major Pengree then submitted The Bridesmaids, but we are informed all these were much too bashful to express their thanks in words. Deputy Surgeon-General Cates proposed "The Host and Hostess," to which Dr. Hojel fittingly responded. Among those invited were Sir Charles Sargent, Sir Raymond and Miss West, the Hon. Mr. Justice, Mrs., and the Misses Parson, the Hon. Mr. Latham, the Hon. Mr. Justice and Mrs. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Forrest, Mr. and Mrs. Metaxas, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. The Committee of the Eurasian and Anglo-Indian Association of the Punjab purpose passing a resolution at an early meeting, expressing their entire disapproval of the Congress and its ways.

A special meeting of the Congress Reception Committee was held on Saturday, in the rooms of the Bombay Presidency Association. Among those present were Mr. A. O. Hume, and Captain Banon, the nephew of the Maharaja of Durbungah. Mr. Perozshah Merwanjee Mehta was elected President of the Reception Committee. It was resolved that each delegate should be charged Rs. 8 as his delegation fee, and Rs. 4 for food and lodging, to be provided by the Reception Committee during the time the Congress will sit in Bombay. Many of those present thought that no charge should be made for the feeding of the delegates. On the other hand, Mr. Hume and others were of opinion that by reason of the number of delegates increasing progressively, arrangements for their feeding had become a matter of serious difficulty, and that a beginning should be made of a new order of things under which each delegate should make his own arrangements for his accommodation. It was too late this year to make a start in that direction, and therefore a compromise was agreed to by levying the fees abovementioned. Some ladies having expressed a desire to attend the Congress as delegates, it was resolved that their request could not be complied with. No fee will be charged to the visitors, but the subscribers to the Congress fund will have a priority in getting tickets of admission. It was resolved not to admit delegates on behalf of native princes and chiefs. It was further resolved to provide accommodation in the Congress pavilion for above 1,200 delegates and 1,800 visitors. The consideration of what subjects should be discussed in Congress has been reserved for a future meeting.

A HUSBAND CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

The case in which Carl Rudolph Braemer is charged with assaulting his wife, Mrs. Harriet Braemer, again came on for hearing before Mr. Richardson on Saturday. Mr. Hemming appeared for the complainant.

Bija Bhookar Dyab, a police sepoy, in his examination by the defendant, said that he was doing duty on the Cruikshank Road on the morning of the 20th ultimo. He saw the complainant passing along that road in a gharry, and the defendant following her in a victoria. Mrs. Braemer went towards the Fort and afterwards returned, accompanied by a gentleman. The gharry was then stopped and the lady got down, after which the dog-cart was turned towards the Fort. The defendant then jumped into the dog-cart, the lady and gentleman getting into a victoria and driving off. The defendant was the person who accompanied her from the Fort. He did not know from where the other gentleman came, but he went away with Mrs. Braemer in the victoria. The defendant drove the dog-cart towards the Fort. The witness did not see the defendant shake the complainant by the shoulders. He saw them speaking together but did not observe Mr. Braemer striking her. If an assault had been committed the witness would have seen it. Mrs. Braemer was telling an untruth when she said she was pushed down. Mrs. Braemer made no complaint to the witness of having been assaulted.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hemming the witness said that he had never seen the complainant since the day in question. There was a dead buffalo lying on the road about fifty paces from his post. He did not see any of the parties going towards it. If any one had gone he would have seen them.

Inspector Stanford was then called and stated that Mr. Braemer was the only person who had been to him in connection with the case. Mrs. Braemer had made no complaint to him, but he had heard that she had made a report to Inspector Wilson at the Dhobie Talao Police Station.

The defendant then addressed Mr. Richardson. He said that if he had wished to strike his wife he would have chosen a better time to have done so. He had been much harassed by Mr. Hamilton, who had brought charges against him at the Girgaum Police Court. The dog-cart was his property, and had been lent by him to Mrs. Braemer, and he, seeing that his wife used to drive down to Colaba to misconduct herself, had judged it expedient to take away the dog-cart from her. He did this without pushing or striking his wife, and he called the attention of the Court to the fact that he was the first person to go to the police.

Mr. Hemming said that on the morning after the assault his client went to another police officer, and made a report.

The defendant was convicted of the charge, and sentenced to pay a fine of Rs. 10, in default to undergo five days' simple imprisonment.

Braemer then applied for permission to prosecute his wife for forgery, as he was in a position to prove that one of the letters put in the case was written either by her or at her instigation.

His Worship told Braemer to present an information.

MEETINGS OF PUBLIC COMPANIES.

THE SOONDERDAS SPINNING AND WEAVING MILLS.

The seventeenth annual general meeting of shareholders of the company was held on Saturday at the registered office, Tamarind Lane, Mr. Vandrawandas Purshotumdas, chairman of the board of directors, presiding. The following report of the directors was submitted :—

Since the directors had the pleasure of meeting the shareholders last year the plan for the extension of the mill was duly and well matured, and the directors have ordered out from England, a pair of engines from the well-known makers, Messrs. Hick Hargreaves and Company of Bolton. The same is now ready there, and will arrive here within a few weeks. The directors have thought it prudent for the present to add only 6,000 spindles and preparatory machinery and they are in negotiation with the furnishers of same. It is hoped that the machinery will be fitted up and ready for working by the time the new engines are ready to drive them. From the annexed audited balance-sheet and profit and loss statement made up to 30th June 1889 it will be observed that the profit made by the company for the year amounts to Rs. 64,585-5-1. From this amount, the commission (Rs. 35,859-4-0) due to the secretaries and treasurers has not been deducted in accordance with the arrangement made by the secretaries with the board last year. The directors have, therefore, resolved not to pay any dividend this year, and will carry the whole sum of Rs. 64,585-5-1 to "Mill Extension Fund Account." Your mill property is insured against risk of fire for the sum of Rs. 5,72,000 and cotton and other stock for the sum of Rs. 2,15,000. Messrs. Hussambhoy Vishram and Goculdas Narronjee retire by rotation, but are eligible for re-election.

The directors' report and audited accounts were approved and adopted. It was resolved that the amount of profit, Rs. 64,585-5-1 be carried to the "Mill Extension Fund Account." Messrs. Hassumbhoy Visram and Goculdas Narronji, who retired by rotation, were re-elected directors. Messrs. Framjee Temooljee and Dwarkadas Oodowjee were elected auditors for the ensuing year with a remuneration of Rs. 150 each. The proceedings terminated with the customary compliment to the chairman.

H. E. LORD REAY AT SCOTCH ZENANA SCHOOLS.

On Wednesday evening last H. E. the Governor distributed the prizes to the successful students of the above Schools. The Revd J Henderson read the report of the schools for the past year which was as follows:—

There are present to-day 700 girls and 100 boys. The girls are from 7 schools in the City and Camp, the boys from 2 village schools. In four schools out of this number a few pupils learn English, the rest learn Mahratti from the beginning up the Vth standard, the arithmetic of which is decimals. The highest A V standard taught is the Vth in which Algebra and Euclid are begun. The Bible is taught daily for about half an hour. There is also a Sunday School, in each school, but the attendance at this is voluntary. Only about 20 children out of the whole number do not come to Sunday School. Twenty-six children out of the 800 are borders. These are supported by Mission friends in India and at home. Each child costs £5 a year, towards this, the parents of such as have any are expected to contibute not less than Re 1 a month. Except in the case of these 26 boarders nothing is given beyond a free education. We have no scholarships. Since writing this, through the kindness of Mrs. Kirkham, a scholarship for one year has been given to a poor and deserving student. Picture-cards are given for regular attendance in the Sunday Schools, the presents to be given to-day are the only other inducements to attend school. All the schools are at present under the Grant by Results system of the Educational Department. In connection with the Boarding School, there is a Normal Class. Sixteen teachers from this are at present teaching in this and two other Mission Schools, the rest have married. We have good reason to think that by God's blessing all are doing well. On an average three teachers pass out each year. This year 4 of our schools had the great honour and pleasure of a visit from His Excellency and Lady Reay ; this will not soon be forgotten by teachers and children. The Government Grant for all our schools last year Rs. 1,396 less than Rs. 2 per head per annum, probably not as much in a year, as is spent on the Government Schools in this city in a month. The class of children in our schools is in some districts the same as that in the Government Schools ; in others it is somewhat poorer. All the schools except the Boarding School have been established by the present Mission workers, within the last 14 years. Three families of children only knew something before they came in, the rest have been taught from "Ay, A, E—" the difficulties they encounter in their study some are to-day to describe in song.

With regard to educational results, the members of our Mission, qualified by experience to judge, do not consider them wholly satisfactory, owing among other causes, to the present Code requiring too many subjects for the time at our disposal. By means of the Zenana Missions, we are able in some cases to continue the teaching of those who have left school, by weekly visits to their houses. We have at the present time 18 such pupils. This has shown good results. Above and beyond education our object is to teach the children of the God who made, and the Saviour who redeemed them. We have in daily use the purest moral text-book that ever existed. Our children learn the Ten Commandments and the Lord's Prayer, but not a catechism. Denominational teaching, if in place any where, is certainly not so in schools in this country. The Mission is supported by the Church of Scotland, but receives help from members of the Church of England in India at home. The presents to be given to-day have been sent from Scotland, England and St. Andrew's congregation in this place. About 30 only altogether of our children have joined the Church of Christ from heathenism. Our children are on the whole kind and gentle, and they soon learn obedience and order. Truthfulness is enforced, and the children acquire the habit of speaking the truth in school. Our encouragement to continue this work is God's promise. We believe that fair fruit to God's, glory and the good of their country will spring up, though it may be given to workers yet to come, and after the first sowers have passed beyond the possibility of defeat and discouragement.

His Excellency the Governor then rose and said :—Miss Bernard, Ladies and Gentlemen :—It gives me very great pleasure to be present on this occasion. The growth of the schools during the last five years has been very marvellous. The Mission work is in connection with the Church of Scotland of which I am a member, and as such it has a special claim on my sympathy. When I got home I will tell our friends what excellent work is being carried on here by Miss Bernard and other helpers. I am afraid Miss Bernard—I should say the Misses Bernard overtax their strength in their unceasing efforts to work as long as it is day. Our friends in Scotland must give her all the help in their power to further her noble work.

It would make a great difference to India if many Civilians as distinguished as Sir Charles Bernard could leave members of their family behind in a field of work as important to India as that in which so prominent a place is occupied in Poona by his three sisters.

The report now before me is a model report. It abstains from mentioning anything but really important facts. I note in the first place that religious instruction is imparted in all the Schools, with this distinctive feature that no denominational tenets are taught. I am glad that it is so, and that the representatives of the Church of Scotland in Poona have thereby shown a real insight into the methods which should be followed. The school is better for Christian teaching, but I doubt very much whether a reproduction in Indian soil of denominational differences would be attended with good results, whereas it will certainly delay the adoption of Christianity by those who would be attracted to it in its original simplicity. The superiority of this Christianity will be admitted by non-Christians who carefully study its theory and practice. I need not add that in these schools as elsewhere we do not seek to carry persuasion except by precept and what is worth a great deal more consistency of conduct.

The report says there is a Normal Class in connection with the school. On this side of the work not enough stress can be laid. Government very often find it difficult to get men or women to do the educational work as they wish it should be done. But here we have the invaluable aid of the highest motives of self-sacrifice in advancing the cause of education on lines which exclude mere mechanical instruction, because the teachers appeal to the hearts as well as to the minds of their pupils.

From the remarks made by the Deputy Educational Inspector I find that the Kasha Peith School takes the first place among the 20 Girls' Schools of Poona, a result on which I congratulate the Lady Superintendent, Miss Longford.

The report does not complain of the insufficiency of Government Grants, but of the superabundance of subjects prescribed by the Code. I shall be very thankful if Miss Bernard will give in a list of subjects which she thinks superfluous to Mr. Kirkham, and I am sure her suggestions will receive careful consideration from that distinguished officer, who has given effect with great judgment to the policy of Government which is opposed to all uniformity and favours elasticity.

The report brings out another very pleasing new feature to which attention is now being paid in Great Britain. I mean the continuation Schools, to which Lord Derby recently devoted a speech. Children when they leave School are taught in their homes, and visited by their teachers. This entails a great deal of additional and heavy work on the ladies of this Institution, whose efforts in this direction should meet with a cordial response. I shall tell Lord Derby that continuation Schools have been anticipated in India and great difficulties overcome. I must allude to another point. These schools are free schools, a blessing which has been conferred upon Scottish schools by legislation this year, so that in this respect also we have been in advance. In considering what is done by the two sisters for the intellectual and moral improvement of the coming generation, we cannot on this occasion omit to recognise the great assistance given to them by the third sister, Dr. Bernard, who in another sphere does so much to improve the condition of the women of Poona, when they want to be relieved from their sufferings. I trust that God may spare the lives, and add to the strength of the three sisters, and that an abundant harvest may be the result of the seed they have sown. (Cheers).—Deccan Herald

When the Government of India go recruiting for one of their various departments and ask for a fit man, they probably expect to get him, but the position of the local Government, from whose administration the recruit is selected, is rather different. Each Government should, therefore, in self-defence keep a commissioner capable of making a discriminating report upon his infant phenomenon, such as was recently sent up in a province that shall be nameless. "Mr. Blank—bad executive ; fair judicial : would do for the accounts branch." Mr. Blank's subsequent career will be watched with much interest by the officers of the Accounts Department.

BANQUET TO THE CHLOROFORM COMMISSION.

At the United Service Club, Secunderabad, on Tuesday evening, Nawab Intesar Jung entertained some two hundred guests, who had been invited to meet Dr. Lauder Brunton and the members of the Chloroform Commission. The specious new Club looked its best on the occasion repaying as it does so richly the zealous pains taken to decorate it. Shortly after 8 o'clock the guests began to arrive, when they were received at the top of the staircase by the genial host, who had a few warm words of friendly welcome for everybody.

Two tables extending the whole length of the building were not sufficient to accommodate all bidden to do honour to the doctors, and almost all the doctors in the station and in Hyderabad were present ; but we must hold over the names of the guests. After a dinner, which justified the reputation of the Club, the host rose and proposed the health of Her Majesty the Queen-Empress, which was warmly honoured. The next was the health of His Highness the Nizam, which was proposed in words which betrayed strong feeling and affection, and was enthusiastically responded to. The health of His Excellency the Minister, Sir Asman Jah, was next proposed, and received with hearty cheers. Then came the health of the guests of the evening! After the cheering had subsided, Nawab Intesar Jung spoke as follows :—

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I am going to ask you to drink to the health of my honoured guests of the evening, the distinguished members of the Chloroform Commission.

In one of the sayings of our Prophet and Reformer handed down to us by tradition, he mentions the science of medicine and the science of religions, i.e., theology, as the two most important branches of human knowledge, and he assigns the place of honour to the former because all human effort, in whatever field, must, constituted as we are, depend for its success on bodily and mental health, the case of which is the peculiar province of the physician. Therefore, although religion is of supreme importance for the salvation of the soul, the body in which that soul is confined in our sublunary life, must needs demand, as a means to an end, our first care. Well has a Persian poet said :—"A mind distracted can little bend in prayer."

Of the science and the profession that is thus exalted our guests of this evening are, as you know, most distinguished representatives. Wherever the science of the medicine is known and the healing art practised on modern principles, there the name of Dr. Lauder Brunton is an honoured and distinguished name, not only as a brilliant adept in the art, but as one that has made clear for his contemporaries and for posterity many an obscure corner in the science, which he has made his own. It is owing to the labours of him and workers like him that pharmacology has risen from the condition of a mere repertoire of drugs to the dignity of a science, and his work has found its way to all civilized countries and been translated into the principal learned languages of the modern European world.

The method of research, which in the hands of men like Dr. Lauder Brunton and others has yielded such rich results, is well illustrated by the enquiry which has enabled us to do ourselves the honour of meeting him here to night.

You are aware that ether and chloroform are the two substances used by modern surgeons for performing their truly marvellous operations without giving pain to their patients or a shock that might prove fatal in some cases. Now, although chloroform is found to be a much more pleasant and convenient agent to employ in producing anæsthesia some surgeons of Europe and America employ ether by preference, because chloroform has hitherto been supposed by many to have a paralising effect on the heart, and when death has occurred under chloroform, it has been generally ascribed to the stoppage of the heart through the agency of this drug. Our distinguished guest, Surgeon Major Lawrie, and his coadjutors, on the other hand, declared, as the result of repeated experiments, that chloroform had no direct effect on the heart, and death under chloroform, if unskilfully used, occurred from an over dose which caused stoppage of the respiration. Dr. Lowrie, in his extensive practice extending over many thousands of surgical cases, has always employed chloroform without losing one single patient. To settle this question once for all it was suggested by Dr. Lowrie that his experiments should be repeated and subjected to such tests as the rigid requirements of scientific generalisation demand in the presence of some members of the profession whose position would carry weight in Europe. To enable Dr. Lawrie to bring about such an enquiry, His Highness was pleased to place a generous donation at his disposal, and the proposal being communicated to the Lancet, perhaps the first medical journal of the world, the conductors of that periodical induced Dr. Lauder Brunton, whose name stands foremost in this branch of research to go out as their representative. The Government of India has also been pleased to depute Surgeon Major Bamford, a distinguished member of the Indian Medical Service, to assist at the conference. Experiments are performed daily at the Residency Medical School on dogs and monkeys, in which the effect of chloroform on the heart and on respiration is noted by means of instruments of marvellous delicacy, such as perhaps have never before been used in India.

Now I venture to say that we Mahommedans are peculiarly entitled to sympathise with the objects of the Commission, for we were the first originators of that experimental research, which in the hands of Europe has led to such magnificent results. The seed was sown by our ancestors and nourished with the waters of the Euphrates and the Guadalquiver. Chloroform and ether and some other wonderful agents have been obtained from substances first discovered in the laboratories of a Razi Jubair and an Ibn-i-Yinus Musalman Surgeons were the first to make use of the actual cautery, and they invented instruments for midwifery and for ophthalmic surgery. Ibn-i-Haitham, known to Europe as Al Hazen, discovered the weight of the atmosphere and fixed its height at 52 miles, enunciated the principle of aberration in optics, and almost reconstructed that on mathematical principles upon the scant foundation laid by the Greeks.

I need not dwell on this subject further to night, for I could not exhaust the subject in the course of an after-dinner speech, though I might easily exhaust your patience. I will, therefore, call upon you now to drink to the health and prosperity of the Chloroform Commission, coupling with it the names of Drs. Lauder Brunton, Bamford, Lawrie and Hehir. (Loud cheers.)

To the toast of His Excellency, the Minister Nawab Mahdi Ali replied :

Ladies and Gentleman,—I rise to propose the health of His Excellency the Minister, but I must ask you to allow me to speak in Urdu. I am afraid that great many of the ladies and gentlemen present will not understand me, but in that case my speech will be some thing like the proceedings of the Chloroform Commission, which we have assembled this evening to do honour to. We all speak of the Commission with the highest praise, but I fancy very few of us know what it is all about.

I hope, however, that our host will afterwards make clear to you what the object of this really important Commission is, and I am sure that he will do so far better than I can.

Although I myself do not know much about medicine, except what to my misfortune I am often obliged to take on account of my bad health, I do knew that the science of medicine has always been encouraged in Mahomedan nation.

In fact, it may be said that the modern school of medicine stands in the same relation to the ancient Arabic school as a child does towards its father. Our great author, Aboo Ali Cena, is still read and studied in Western schools, and I have seen in my friend Syed Hoossin's house a work consisting of some twenty big volumes, which is nothing more than an index of the works of the various Mahomedan writers on medicine and philosophy.

In ancient days we had no specialists as we have now. An old Arabian or a Persian School did not confine his studies to one subject only. We often find one man writing about every conceivable subject, such as medicine, philosophy, astronomy, accounts, cooking and poetry into the bargain.

Now medicine has always been a very favourite subject with our old writers. This feeling has become hereditary, and it is not therefore a matter of surprise that the Mahomedan Government of these dominions should at once have offered to give every assistance in its power to the Commission, which is now experimenting on the effects of chloroform. But it is to H. E. the Minister that this assistance is due, and it is therefore only right that we should drink his health.

It is not for me, who am his subordinate, to give my master praise or blame, but I may perhaps be allowed to point out that the encouragement given to this Commission is quite in keeping with the rest of His Excellency's administration. The constant aim, which His Excellency has had in view, has been progress and improvement, and when the history of this administration comes to be written, it will be found that a very great deal of good work has been done, and that the country has, under Sir Asman Jah, continued to advance in civilization and prosperity, and if as it is confidently predicted by some, the results of this Commission will be to produce a revolution in the science of anæsthetics, the encouragement that he has caused to be given will not be one of the least important of his acts, for which a future generation will owe him gratitude. (Cheers).—Deccan Standard.

REGISTRATION IN THE PUNJAB.

There is a story told of a native official in the Punjab who on one occasion recorded a death-rate, which in ten years would have depopulated the district. His attention was called to the fact, and the following year the death-rate was so reduced and the birth-rate so increased that in ten years there would have been no room for the astounding influx of babies. This too was pointed out, and the third year the figures showed the population to be stationary. Questioned again as to the explanation of these extraordinary fluctuations the accommodating official replied :—"Your Honour objected to too many deaths one year, and to too many births the next : so the third I just made the births and deaths equal. The story may or may not be true ; but there can be no doubt that conclusions based on statistical returns have their proverbial uncertainty greatly enhanced in India. What with imperfections in registration and changes in the system of record, the seeker after truth is apt to give up his quest in the disgusted conviction that the Indian blue-book is deeper even than the Greek philosopher's well. Take, for instance, the case of crime in the Punjab, the record of which for the past year with the Local Government's comments thereon has just been issued. For years back official reports have shown an increase in crime, which was positively alarming ; but now we are told that "much of the apparent increase is merely nominal, being due to the indiscriminate inclusion in the returns of cognisable cases reported direct to the Magistrates, and to the want of a simple and workable procedure for the discrimination of false cases." This may be all very true : it is the opinion of the Inspector-General of Police and of the Chief Court, and it derives probability from the fact that while the number of cases directly reported to the Magistrates rose enormously last year, the number set down as maliciously false actually decreased ; but we are surely entitled to ask why the discovery was not made long ago : why the Inspector-General of Police and the Chief Court have so long suffered the criminal administration of their Province to be unduly blackened when a simple change in the existing system of record would have effectually prevented the error ? In the case of vital statistics there are special circumstances which, in the case of the native population, render accuracy unattainable, at least for a long time to come ; but there can be no possible reason why cases which come before the law courts of the country should be recorded as true crime when they are nothing of the sort. The Punjab Government has now, it appears, submitted proposals to the Government of India, the object of which is to put the system of recording crime of a sounder basis ; but this ought to have been done long ago, and in the meanwhile there must be some doubt as to how far the actual returns ought to be discounted.—Pioneer.

PUBLIC WORKS ACCOUNTS.

The Government of India have issued several further Resolutions on recommendations in the report of the Public Works Accounts Committee. Local Governments have been authorised to confer increased powers with respect to sanctions to works, losses of stock, purchases, contracts and manufactures upon Executive Engineers whom they may consider fit to exercise them. The Government of India has accepted the principle that the accountant should be treated as the head of the Executive Engineer's office establishment and ruled that the Examiner should always receive the Superintending Engineer's consent before transferring an Executive Engineer's accountant. Lower subordinates are in future to be always supplied with printed forms in which to prepare their accounts. The use of printing in executive divisions is to be encouraged. The Committee's recommendation that the occasional payment of cheques through any subordinate, at the discretion and on the responsibility of the disburser, be permissible, has been accepted. The Executive Engineer's sub-register of outlay on works and services has been abolished.

The most important measure of relief to Executive Engineers in this latest series of orders is, however, one with respect to completion reports. It has been ruled that details of the outlay shall not be required in completion reports for works costing less than Rs. 5,000 ; and that with respect to works costing over that limit details shall be required in cases only where the total estimate is exceeded by more than five per cent. When the cost does not exceed the estimate by over five per cent a simple statement showing the name of the work, the cost, the estimate, the excess or saving and giving a reference to the record plan is to be accepted. When the work is carried out in close accord with the estimate, the relief will be great. When the excess is over five per cent and the work costs over Rs. 5,000, full details of the outlay, in comparison with the estimate, and full explanation of the divergence from the estimate will still be required. Reference to professional details is to be omitted from completion certificates sent to other departments for counter-signature.

THE PNEUMATIC DYNAMITE GUN.

The successful trials of the pneumatic dynamite gun on board the U. S. vessel Vesuvius, writes a service paper, is undoubtedly a new development in warfare. It has been taken for granted by many on this side that it would almost revolutionise naval warfare ; but it may be interesting to give the opinions of a few American officers who have had an opportunity of digesting the results of the trials. The officer commanding the torpedo station at Newport is of opinion that this gun is a weapon of enormous power, unattended as it is with any smoke, and that it is not rash to predict that the dynamite gun will be found before long in all the leading navies of the world. Another officer looks upon the gun as an instrument of destruction in the same category as torpedo-boats, and as the pioneer of projecting high explosives. The Chief of the Ordnance at Washington, however, holds that the dynamite gun is too large and cumbersome, and takes up too much room, and that in a sea-way the gun cannot be trained as well as the broadside and pivot now in use, but that eventually it will become a success. Yet another is of opinion that the gun will never be brought to such a pitch, that it will be substituted for the guns now in use, although it will serve as an auxiliary. It is held by others that it will take the place of torpedoes, having greater range and much greater accuracy than any torpedo in existence, but that it will never replace the ordinary gun on account of the limit of range. It is thought that for harbour defence, where the exact range is known, it might be used very well, but it would hardly do in a rough sea-way, and it will be a long time before it is properly developed. The Commodore of the Brooklyn Navy Yard expresses his opinion that it is a valuable adjunct, and that is the best that can be said for it. It can do effective work under favourable conditions, but there are no reasons why it should do away with the heavy battle ships ; while the Captain of the Pensacola holds the opposite opinion, and believes that the Vesuvius is more than likely to do away with the big and costly battle-ships, but he regards the whole thing as experimental thus far. Captain Chadwick and some other officers are inclined to think lightly of the Vesuvius and her dynamite guns, alleging that the short range and difficulty of accurate firing in a heavy sea has insuperable objections. As these views are gathered from an American source, we may rest assured that the Vesuvius has not yet sounded the death-knell of England's naval supremacy.

NEWS IN ADVANCE OF THE MAIL.

The following extracts of news are taken from papers published the day after the last mail left London :—

THE BRIGHTON ELECTION.

The polling at Brighton took place on the 25th ult. A more pleasant day, as far as weather was concerned, could not be imagined. Both candidates were early astir, and were indeed almost ubiquitous all day. At half-past eight the counting of the votes commenced at the Town-hall, whither all the boxes had been conveyed, and the Mayor was enabled to announce the result at a quarter to 11, as follows :—

Loder (Conservative)	7,132
Peel (Gladstonian)	4,625
Conservative majority	2,507

The result was received with loud and continued cheers by a considerable crowd outside, which ever since eight o'clock had been steadily growing in numbers. This magnificent majority gave great satisfaction in all parts of the town, especially at the various Constitutional Clubs, which were crowded with the members resting after a fortnight's excessive work.

Immediately after the declaration of the poll Mr. Loder left the Town-hall on foot, and escorted by a cheering crowd, proceeded to the Pavilion Hotel, from the balcony of which he briefly addressed his supporters. He then drove to the Preston Constitutional Club, in the heart of the working class population of the borough. Here, too, he was most enthusiastically received, the horses being taken out of his carriage. He delivered another speech of thanks to an applauding crowd.

Sir Robert Peel made no speech, and in fact left the Town-hall some time before the counting was completed. The streets were filled with excited and cheering crowds till a late hour.

At the election on March 1, 1884, the result was : Marriott (C.), 5,478, Romer (L.) 4,021, majority, 1,457. This majority was without a precedent at any previous election. The election was the occasion of Mr. Marriott's resignation to seek the opinion of the electors upon his secession from the Liberal party and becoming a Conservative. The following are the figures for the later elections :—1885, Mr. W. T. Marriott (C), 7,047 ; Mr. D. Smith (C.), 7,019 ; J. B. Probyn (L.), 4,899; Mr. J. R. Holland (L.), 4,865. 1886, Mr. D. Smith (C.), 5,963 ; Mr. W. T. Marriott (C.), 5,875 ; Mr. W. Hall (G.) 2,633. In July, 1886, Mr. Marriott (now Sir W. T. Marriott) accepted office and he was returned unopposed. In November, 1886, Mr. D. Smith (C.) died, and the late Sir W. Tindal Robertson (C.) was returned unopposed.

CANNIBALISM BY ENGLISH SAILORS.

Two men named Graves and Loder, belonging to the crew of the British steamer Earnmoor, bound from Baltimore to Rio de Janeiro, which foundered near the Bahamas at the beginning of last month, have arrived at Baltimore on the 25th ult. and give heartrending details of the terrible privation and suffering they underwent in their own boat. They state that William Robinson, one of those in the boat, died after, they had been drifting some time, and that the ship's cook, who was also with them, was ordered to cut up the body of their comrade. The first thing done was to smash Robinson's skull, from which each of the survivors sucked the blood as long as it lasted. The cook then stripped the flesh from the ribs and dried it in the sun. After extracting the liver, heart, and other parts, from which blood was procurable, the rest of the body was thrown overboard. Two days after Robinson's death Hunt, the engineer, succumbed, and his body was also cut up for food. After about three days the limbs of the survivors began to swell, and several ugly sores appeared.

Graves and Loder declare that they do not recollect the taste of the flesh so great was their anguish at the time.

THE EXTRAORDINARY BANK ROBBERY.

An inquest was held at Disbury on the 25th ult. on the body of James Dwyer, who stole £78 from a local bank there on the previous Thursday, shot the manager, and finally committed suicide. The man was identified by his brother, a private in the East Yorkshire Regiment, stationed at Sheffield.

The jury returned a verdict of felo-de-se.

THE EXPLOSION ON A CUNARD STEAMER.

Three out of the five men who were scalded on board the Cephalonia on Thursday (Oct. 24) have died from their injuries. At the inquest held at Holyhead on the 25th, Mr. MacFarlane, second engineer, said the exact cause of the explosion could not be stated. The first intimation he had that an accident had occurred was an immense volume of flame and smoke issuing from the boiler. He ran to one of the bunkers, not being able to get up the ladder. The other men ran up, but some of them must have inhaled both flame and smoke. The boiler and machinery had been thoroughly surveyed before leaving Liverpool, and also at Boston on the previous voyage. The boilers were out in sight years ago. A verdict of death from scalding and shock was returned. The fireman Webb lies in a very dangerous condition, but MacFarlane hopes to be able to leave for home in a few days.

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

The hearing of evidence in the Cronin trial was continued at Chicago on Oct. 25th. The witnesses who were allied with regard to the identification of Dr. Cronin's body all swore positively to its identity.

THE ZANZIBAR DEPUTATION.

Muhammad Bin-Suleiman and Saoud Bin-Iamid, accompanied by a small suite, arrived in London on the 25th ult., on a short visit to England. The Envoys went to the Foreign Office shortly after four o'clock in an open carriage, escorted by Colonel Euan Smith, British Consul at Zanzibar, Captain Gissing, and Mr. Berkeley. Sir Clement Hill was also present at the Foreign Office. Lord Salisbury received the deputation in his private room, Colonel Euan Smith introducing them to the Premier. The visit is understood to be a distinctly complimentary one. After a conversation of nearly a quarter of an hour's duration the deputation withdrew, expressing themselves much gratified at the cordiality of their reception.

Sir C. Hill was to take the envoys to Windsor Castle on the 25th ult., and in the evening they visit the Empire Theatre. On Monday afternoon Captain Shaw will provide a show by the fire-brigade, and in the evening they were to leave for Balmoral, where they were introduced by Colonel Euan Smith to her Majesty. On Wednesday the party returns to London.

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION.

In a speech delivered on the 24th ult. at Tenterfalls, Sir Henry Parkes said the hour was come for Australia to have an Executive Government and an independent Parliament to settle its national affairs. He suggested the idea of a Congress, at which the representatives of all the Colonies might settle the form of the Government and the Parliament of the Federation.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE.

Athens, Oct. 25.

The Empress Frederick, Princess Sophia, and the Princesses, her sisters, arrived here at four o'clock, and drove to the Palace through the midst of a dense crowd.

The King of Greece went to Corinth to meet his Imperial visitors. He was received on his arrival by the Archbishop, who wore his sacerdotal vestments.

A large crowd awaited the arrival of the Empress Frederick and her daughters. When the Crown Prince went forward to meet his bride, and first saluted, and then embraced her, the cheering was most enthusiastic.

A number of young girls presented the bride-elect with bouquets of white roses.

The Sovereigns afterwards went to the Kalamaki together : the Amphitrite weighed anchor at noon, and anchored at the Piræus at three o'clock. The Queen of Greece, accompanied by her Royal guests, was awaiting the arrival of the Empress Frederick.

The Mayor of Athens bid a hearty welcome to the Princess and her mother in two speeches, one in Greek and the other in German.

The reception of the imperial party in Athens was most enthusiastic. The streets are profusely decorated with flags and festoons surrounding the monograms of the Royal bridegroom and his bride interlaced.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S TOUR.

An enthusiastic meeting of Italians was held at Alexandria on the 25th ult. They decided to decorate with bunting the residences and establishments of the Italians, and to erect triumphal arches in honour of the visit of the Prince of Wales.

A meeting of the British colony here was to be held next day to consider what steps should be taken to do honour to the Prince of Wales, as he cannot accept a public fete on account of his being in mourning for the King of Portugal.

The Khedive's Court left Alexandria on the 20th ult. for Cairo.

SAD BUT TRUE.
THE HISTORY OF MANKIND CONVINCES US

That disasters are in reality stepping stones for higher progress. To prevent disastrous diseases from poisoned blood, use

ENO'S "FRUIT SALT."

No one can have a simpler and more efficient remedy. By its use the poison is thrown off, and the blood restored to its healthy condition by natural means. I used my FRUIT SALT freely in my last attack of Fever, and I have every reason to say it saved my life.—J. C. ENO.

Instead of being lowering to the system, ENO'S "FRUIT SALT" is in the highest degree Invigorating. Its effect in relieving thirst, giving tone to the system, and aiding digestion is MOST STRIKING.

NO TRAVELLER SHOULD LEAVE HOME without a supply of ENO'S "FRUIT SALT," for by its use the most dangerous forms of fevers, blood poisons, &c., are prevented and cured. It is in truth a Family Medicine Chest in the simplest yet most potent form. It has a natural action on the organs of digestion, absorption, circulation, respiration, secretion and excretion, and removes all impurities, and hinders (by natural means) the unnatural and dangerous accumulation of fat. It keeps the body in healthy trim, by preserving and restoring health.

HEADACHE AND DISORDERED STOMACH.—"After suffering for years from severe headache and disordered stomach, and after trying almost everything without any benefit, I was recommended your 'FRUIT SALT,' and before I had finished one bottle I found it doing me a great deal of good, now I am restored to my usual health; and others I know that have tried it have not enjoyed such good health for years.—Yours most truly, ROBERT HUMPHREYS, Post Office, Barrasford."

THE ATLAS MOUNTAINS (MOROCCO), NORTH AFRICA.—Mr. Harold Crichton-Browne, in a letter from the Atlas Mountains, says:—"The Kaid of Demnet treated us so well that we desired, on leaving, to make him some acknowledgment, and presented him with . . . . a bottle of ENO'S 'FRUIT SALT,' with which he was much pleased."—The World, September 12, 1888.

SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHER SALINES.—"Dear Sir,—Having been in the habit of taking your 'FRUIT SALT' for many years, I think it only right to tell you that I consider it a most invaluable medicine, and far superior to all other saline mixtures. I am never without a bottle of it in the house, as I find it possesses three most desirable qualities, namely, it is pleasant to the taste, promptly efficacious, and leaves no unpleasant after-effects.—A DEVONSHIRE LADY.—Jan. 25, 1889."

CAUTION.—Legal Rights are protected in every civilized country. Examine each bottle and see that the Capsule is marked ENO'S "FRUIT SALT." Without it you have been imposed on by a WORTHLESS IMITATION. Sold by all Chemists, &c. Prepared only at

with Pepsine & Diastase
for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Vomiting, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Consumption, Gastralgia, Loss of Appetite, Constipation.

« This preparation of value is founded upon sound chemical and physiological principles. While pepsine is the natural solvent or digestive for nitrogenous aliments, it has little or no effect upon the feculent constituents which enter so largely into the composition of the food of man; and there is no doubt that some of the disorders of digestion arise from the mal assimilation of the starchy elements. Now the proper digestive for these is diastase; and in the bi-digestive wine, of M. Chassaing, those two most important principles, pepsine and diastase, are combined in suitable proportions. » — See THE LANCET, July 27 th, 1872.
